TO SHIELD INDIANS

Many Tribesmen Unable To Carry Their Cases To Federal Courts.

The Pontotoc County Bar association rose up in indignation Saturday and voiced a hearty disapproval of two bills pending before congress in resolutions adopted and forwarded to senators and representatives who will be given a voice in the acceptance of rejection of the measure. The bills, one introduced by Senator Harrelld of Oklahoma in the Senate, and one by Congressman T. A. Chandler of Oklahoma in the House of Representatives, provide that all suits, actions and other legal matters pertaining to Indians in the state shall be transferred from the jurisdiction of the state to the federal courts.

The bar association charges that corporations, oil companies and others who want to graft the Indians are behind the bill, and are trying to get it passed. The association also charges that on account of the fact that Indians in most cases are poor and unable to take cases to the court in distant cities, rich corporations will have the advantage. It was also said that the bills grew out of the result of the famous Thlocco Indian suit in Tulsa.

The Resolutions
The resolutions passed and adopted are:

WHEREAS, There is pending before the United States Senate and the House of Representatives, House Bill No. 8457, by Congressman T. A. Chandler, and Senate Bill No. 2527, by Senator J. W. Harrelld, both of Oklahoma.

AND WHEREAS, Said bills seek to make further inroads upon the rights of the State and State courts, and we believe an insult to the ability and integrity of the citizens and courts of this state.

AND WHEREAS, We believe that the legislation embodied in said bill would work a hardship upon the Indians of Oklahoma and put them to great and unnecessary expense in trying their cases among strangers, necessitating their going great distances to have rights determined, and on account of the impoverished condition of many of those who have been defrauded of their land, they would be unable to prosecute their claims in Federal courts situated at great distances from their homes.

AND WHEREAS, We further believe that said legislation is in the interest of persons, firms and corporations who are grantees of persons who have defrauded the Indians of their land.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: 1. That we express our confidence in the courts and citizenship of our state to justify and honestly adjudicate the rights between the Indians and other litigants.

2. We denounce said bills as being an insult to the honesty and integrity of our citizenship and of our courts.

3. That we denounce said bills as being inimical to the Indians of the state.

4. That we call upon all members of the senate and house of representatives to oppose the passage of this bill and especially do we ask and we demand of the Senators and Representatives of our state to exert every effort to defeat the measure.

5. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished each member of the Senate and House of Representatives from Oklahoma; to the Chairman and Members of the Committee on Indian Affairs of the Senate and House of Representatives; to the Daily Oklahoman, Dallas News, and Associated Press for publication.

6. That we call on all Commercial Clubs and Civic Clubs of the state to protest against this vicious bill. (Signed.)

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL AT WARNER CLOSED BY 'FLU'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23.—The Connor School of Agriculture at Warner has been closed by the school authorities because of an epidemic of influenza, according to a report received today by the state board of agriculture. The report did not give particulars.

Smallpox was reported today to the state health department from widely separated parts of the state, and vaccine points were sent to Konawa, Tahlequah and Okene. Dr. A. R. Lewis, state health commissioner, said that where the disease has spread, it is less violent.

FIVE WHITES, 2 NEGROES SEIZED FOR LYNCHING

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23.—Charges of murder were filed in justice court here today against five white men and two negroes in connection with the lynching here on the night of January 14 of Jake Brooks, packing house worker. The men were named in an alleged confession made last night to authorities by Robert Allen, one of the seven, who is a cousin of the dead man.

All of the men are under arrest and their preliminary trial is expected to be held sometime today. They are Charles Polk, Elmer Vearta, J. V. Harris, Lee Whitley, Robert McAlester and Nathan Butler and Robert Allen, negroes.

Five of the men, including Allen, are members of the Butcher workmen's Union, who have been on strike here since December 5 last, according to Fred Kemp, secretary of the local union.

FARMERS NEED CASH

Wallace Says Purpose of
Aggie Met Is To Help
Break Depression.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Attended by approximately 300 delegates representing agriculture in all its phases and the industries relating to farming, the national agriculture conference was convened here today by Secretary Wallace and immediately heard from President Harding a declaration of interest and sympathy by the administration in the present difficulties of the nation's farmers, together with a series of suggestions for remedying existing conditions.

The president, who walked the four blocks from the White House to the New Willard hotel where the conference is being held, received a hearty ovation when he appeared in the conference hall.

The delegation and others in attendance including a number of senators and house members, listened attentively and frequently applauded the executive statesman. Especially strong applause greeted his declaration for more adequate credit facilities and cheering broke out when the president made a slight digression to assert that the present condition of the agricultural industry "is truly of the national interest and not entitled to be regarded as primarily the concern of either a class or a section or a bloc."

Anderson Is Leader.

The president was followed by Sec. Wallace who declared the conference had been called to consider the present agricultural depression and remedies for it and also the laying down of a permanent policy for the rebuilding of sustained agriculture. After the close of his address, he announced that Representative Anderson, of Minnesota, chairman of the joint congressional inquiry committee, would act as permanent chairman of the conference and Dr. H. C. Taylor, chief of the bureau of market and crop estimates, as executive secretary.

Secretary Wallace told the delegates that constant effort might probably be made in three fields which he outlined as follows:

"First, What may be done through legislative action.

"Second, What may be done through administrative and educational effort, national and state, by the various agencies charged with the duty of fostering agriculture.

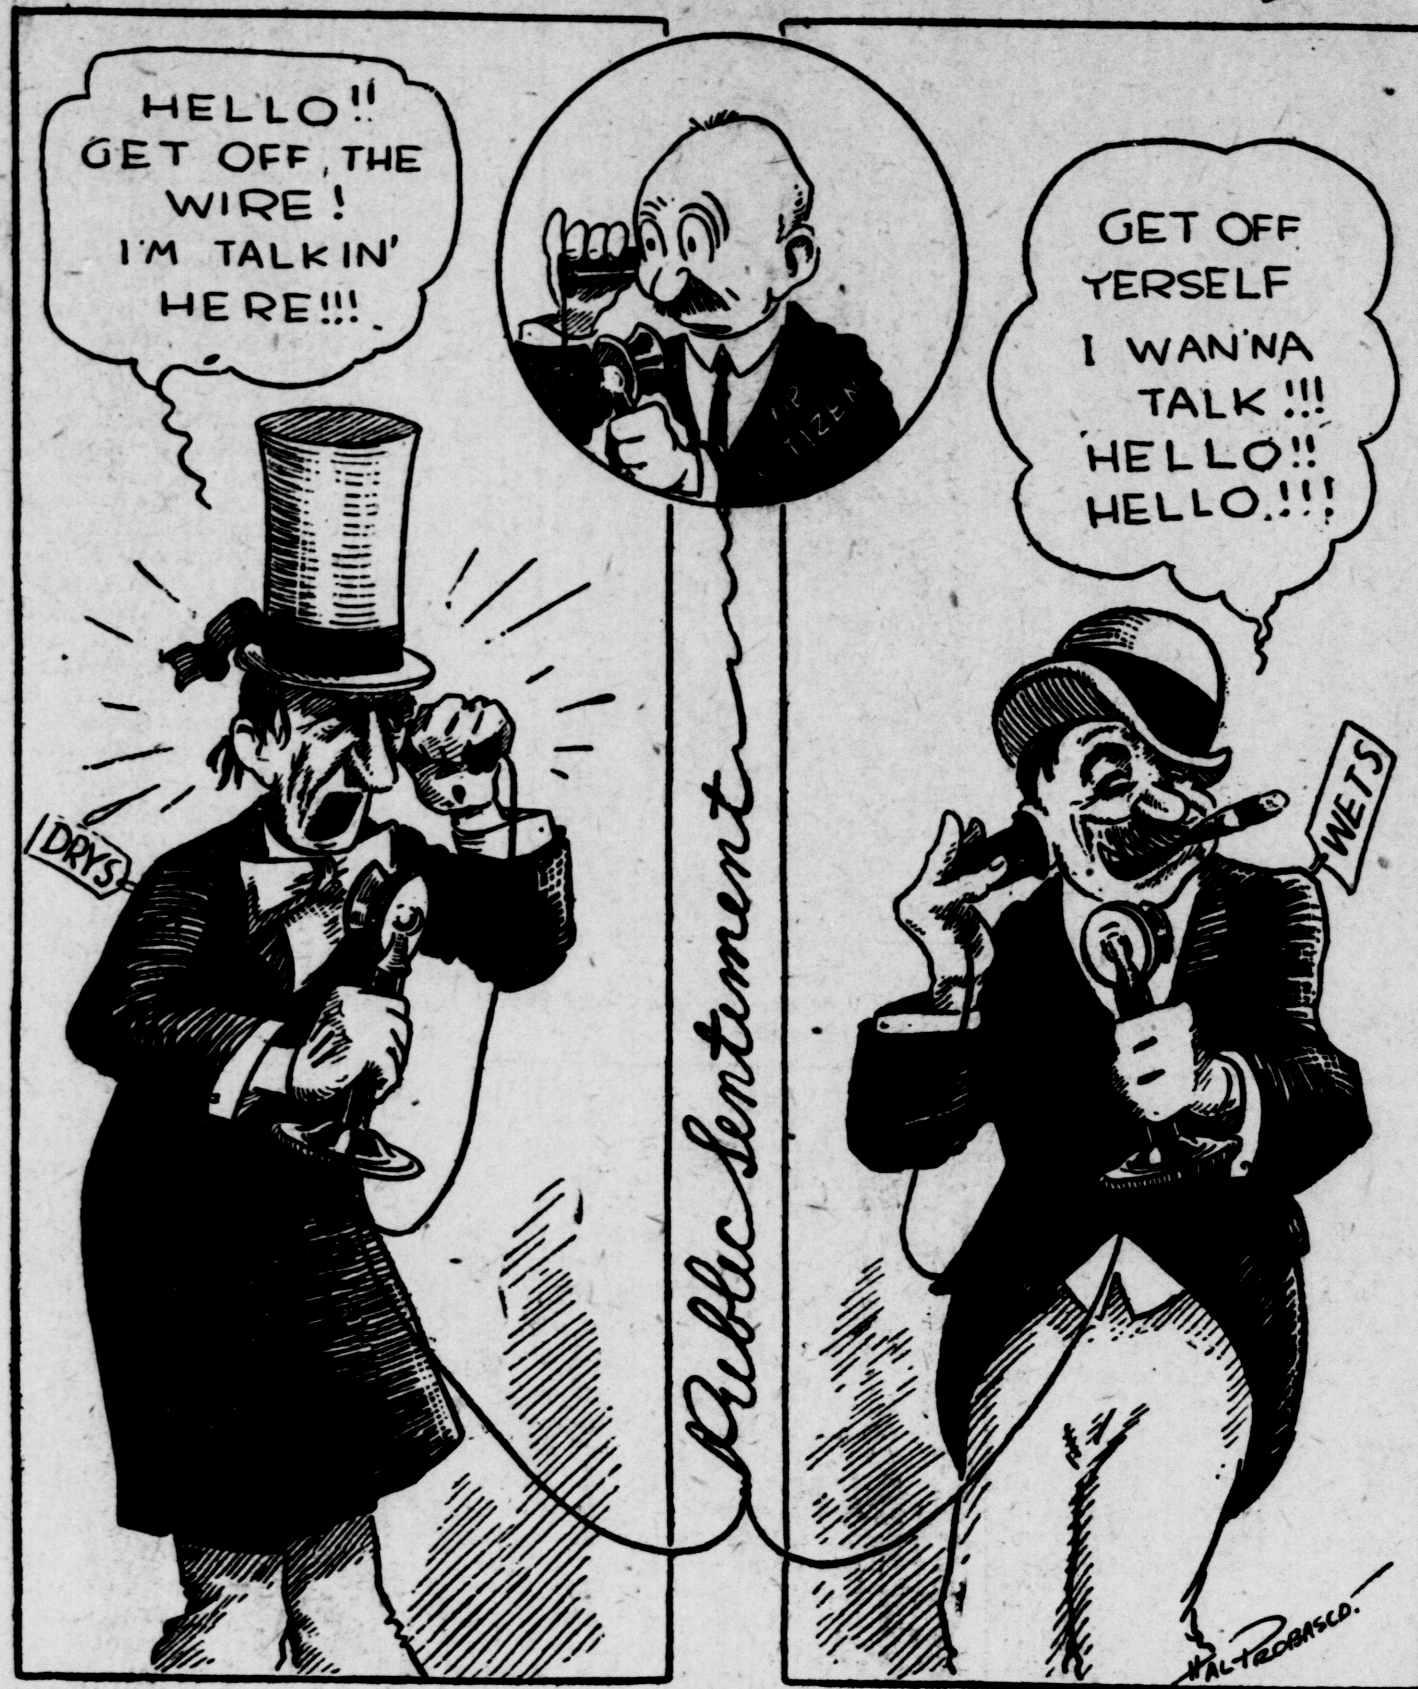

"Third, What may be done and should be done by the farmers themselves individually, and through their organizations."

Membership in Norman Howard post of the American Legion has reached 255, Mayo E. McKeown, post adjutant, reported today. About 110 members were added in the drive last week.

A. K. Thornton, local cotton buyer, has subscribed the price of one membership in the post, to be awarded some worthy former service man who is not able to pay his regular dues, the adjutant said.

A business meeting of the post will be held at the Legion Hall tomorrow night at 7:30.

BENEDICT LIES IN STATE TODAY

Dead Churchman Rests in Historic Cathedral at Rome Monday.

ROME, Jan. 23.—In the hall of St. Peter's historic church of His Father, the body of Pope Benedict lay in state today while vast crowds passed reverently by the catafalque. Early in the day, all that was mortal of the pontiff, whose death in the early hours of Sunday plunged Catholics throughout the world into deepest mourning, was taken into the Sistine Chapel from the throne room of the vatican where it had been placed on Sunday shortly after his death. Then at 9:45 it was solemnly carried to St. Peter's, attended by a solemn procession of Cardinals, members of the diplomatic corps of the dignitaries of the vatican and placed in the catafalque surrounded by leaders of the church.

Word was given out that the public of Rome would be admitted to St. Peter's up to 11 o'clock and immediately immense crowds entered the edifice and filed by the body. The body is robed in white, with accessories of red and gold. The dead reposed upon cushions of red and gold velvet. The hands, wearing the pontiff gloves of purple silk and holding the rosary, were clasped over the breast.

Pick Successor Feb. 1.
ROME, Jan. 23.—The meeting of the Sacred College in conclave to select a successor of the late Pope Benedict, will open February 1 or 2, it was stated today.

Scotland in Move To Reach Freedom Or Die in Attempt

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Now there is an agitation for the independence of Scotland.

Forty members of the Scots National League, which stands for complete separation from England, recently met in London and, to the wild strains of the bagpipes, affirmed their determination to fight, if need be, to gain complete and absolute independence for Scotland.

Speakers recalled that in 1706, Scotland was a free country with a national debt of only one shilling and seven pence per head of the population. Today, every Scotsman owes 177 pounds. Scotland's contribution to taxation last year amounted to 119,487,000 pounds, but only one-quarter of this was devoted to Scottish purposes, they complained.

The threat of a Scottish secession has, however, failed to rouse anything more than a tolerant smile from the general public.

Man Kills Family Then Asks Police To Take His Life

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Patrick Pierney, 24, walked into a police station here early today and confessed, according to police, that he had killed his wife and baby as they lay sleeping Sunday morning.

He was destitute and jealous, he told the police, and could not find employment.

A short time before the arrest the police had obtained his description and had just sent out an order to arrest him when he came out of the cold, and asking for lodging. The police sergeant glanced up at the man.

"Why, you're Patrick Pierney, aren't you?"

"Yes, that's me," Pierney replied. "I killed my wife and baby. Please kill me." Then he collapsed.

MINIATURE SUB CONTRIVED FOR TREASURE DRIVE

ROME, Jan. 23.—A miniature submarine having a capacity of about one cubic yard and operated by one man has been invented by an engineer of Trieste to recover treasure from ships lost at sea and now lying in the ocean depths.

The little craft was devised by Francesco Kalin. It has an electric motor, a pump for expelling water and a device for changing the air within the submarine which will allow her to remain submerged for two hours.

Two reflectors of 2,000 candlepower enable the worker to see clearly about him while immersed. The little submarine is attached by an electric cable to a ship on the surface which can, if necessary, raise the undersea boat. The latter, however, rises to the surface without assistance.

It is claimed that the little craft can descend to greater depths than have yet been attained by submarines. The boat was recently tested by several experts.

DEPUTY'S PRELIMINARY TO OPEN AT PONCA CITY

PONCA CITY, Jan. 23.—J. W. Finney, charged with the murder of Mrs. Dick Skinner and Mrs. R. A. Bouzma, who were killed near Kaw City when the deputy sheriff is alleged to have fired into the car in which they were riding when it failed to halt at his command, was to be given a preliminary hearing at one o'clock today before Judge Hal S. Burke.

Finney, it was said, had been warned to maintain a look-out for a booze car, and shot three times at a car when it failed to halt for a search. Later the car was found to contain no liquor.

O. U. ENGINEERS INSPECTING ADA

Class of Five Seniors To See All Industries in First Trip Here.

Prof. G. B. Helmrich, assistant professor of engineering, in the University of Oklahoma, Norman, with five seniors in the school of engineering, arrived in Ada this morning to spend the rest of the day and Tuesday investigating the various industries in the Ada territory. The students are Paul Crang, Lansing Scranton, John Jamison, Charles Boyles and Benjamin Hume. The young men were entertained at luncheon at the Harris Hotel by the Chamber of Commerce. Executives from the Oklahoma Portland Cement Company, the American Glass Company, the Southern Ice and Cold Storage Company, the Oklahoma Light and Power Company and the Ada News were present, as well as President Bailey M. Bobbitt and Secretary O. N. Walker of the Chamber of Commerce.

Inspect Byng Plant
This afternoon the future empire builders in Oklahoma were carried to the big power plant at Byng and they went over the project carefully. Tomorrow they will investigate the ice plant, glass plant and the various units of the cement plant.

This is the first time in the history of the university that a trip of this kind has been made. Professor Helmrich explained this noon. It is an endeavor to get the students who expect to be instrumental in building industries acquainted with what is in the state now and the possibilities for future development.

After leaving here, they will go to McAlester to see the coal fields and after that to Muskogee and Tulsa to study the industries there. They will be joined at McAlester by Eard Bartholomew and Leo Cade, two other senior engineers.

MUSKOGEE FIREMEN LOSS ON $100,000 FIRE

MUSKOGEE, Jan. 23.—Fire department officials were at loss today to discover the origin of the fire that smoldered late yesterday for three hours in the basement of the two story building at the corner of Main and Broadway, and which broke out with such fury as to escape control of the firemen. The loss today was estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000.

Twenty rooms of a hotel were gutted with a loss estimated at $25,000. Max Davidson Clothing store was ruined by debris, water and smoke with an estimated loss of $75,000. A pool hall, gas station and shoe shining stand also were destroyed. One theory is that the fire originated from spontaneous combustion in a coal bin. Another theory is that crossed electric wires were responsible.

FACE IN BARROOM IS CALLED DEATH'S HEAD

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 23.—"The face on the bar-room floor, should be a skull with crossbones under it, these days," declares George H. Blincoe, federal prohibition agent.

"Death lurks in white corn liquor," he says. "It all contains fusel oil, one of the most deadly poisons. First run moonshine is 'rank poison' yet the moonshiner who makes the stuff—'first shot' it is called by the legitimate distiller, doesn't trouble himself to distill it again, but sells it as it is for drinking purposes."

Double distillation and aging in charred barrels for at least four years is necessary to remove the fusel oil, Mr. Blincoe says.

"No moonshine I have ever seen in my experience as a prohibition enforcement officer has been aged. The bootleggers' motto seems to be 'full speed ahead' and never safety first."

HUNDREDS GIVEN HELP BY UNITED CHARITIES HERE

Annual Report Shows Big

Organization in Contact
With 583 Persons In
Period of Year.

Charitable financial aid was given during 1921 to 103 families of Pontotoc county and 95 transients, according to the annual Red Cross and United Charities report submitted this morning by Mrs. Orville Sneed, secretary.

Throughout the year, the report shows, intensive work was done in the local charities office and no mention has been made in the secretary's statement of hundreds of phone calls, letters written, and scores of other services that have been extended in connection with work at the office.

Seven children were placed in good homes for adoption, four children were sent to the Masonic Orphan home at El Reno, two girls were sent to the state industrial home at Tecumseh, and others are to be forwarded to the industrial institution as soon as the smallpox quarantine is raised there.

Concerning the four girls from this county now at the home, Mrs. Sneed said in her report:

"It is very unfortunate that legislation does not appropriate more funds to this institution so that incorrigible girls can be placed there before they are eternally ruined."

Two women were sent to the West College at Pilot Point, Texas. During the year the United Charities office has had contact with 583 cases and clothing has been given to at least 400 of these families.

"People have been very generous in giving clothing throughout the year and especially when the drive was made in September. It was said by some that a modest estimate of the value of the clothing given at the drive would reach $1000."

The clothing has been, for the most part, given to people in the country. Many more families called from the country, owing to the complete failure of crops.

"The Thanksgiving offering of canned goods by the schools helped so much, and also we have had several nice donations of fruit individuals."

"Calls are increasing by leaps and bounds."

"This statement cannot give the public any idea of the amount of work done at the office, for no mention is made of visits, interviews, writing, telephone calls, etc. We just invite you to visit us. I believe you will say 'its a job'."

Mrs. Sneed's report does not include any soldier work.

KEEP COOL SAYS ADA HEALTH MAN TO CITY MONDAY

Picture Shows To Remain
Open Pending Further Developments.

ONE SCHOOL IS CLOSED

Athletics Suffer Most In Avoiding Spread of Disease.

Ada stands in no danger of a smallpox epidemic, Dr. S. P. Ross, city health officer, declared this morning.

"With the situation practically unchanged since Saturday, the public has nothing to fear, Dr. Ross said, urging that everybody "keep cool and the scare would be blown over in no time."

Picture shows will not be closed unless there are further developments, he announced, and business of the city will move along tranquilly. Schools of the city opened this morning their second semester's work with a uniformly good attendance, a report from the buildings early today showed. One school in the county was closed this morning as a precaution against the possible spread of the smallpox but it is expected to be in session within a few days, County Superintendent A. Floyd said.

Because of a quarantine that has been placed on some of the state institutions, County Sheriff Bob Duncan was holding one prisoner here today in readiness to be sent to McAlester when the ban is lifted.

Sport Hard Hit.
Smallpox precaution has dealt a hard blow to basketball fans of the city who were eagerly looking forward to the outcome of games to be played this week in the city league.

Dr. S. P. Ross, city health officer, today ordered that all games be called off until a later date on account of the necessity of preventing an outbreak of the disease here.

Two games were to have been played tonight but they probably will be postponed until next week. Games to have been played are Teachers college vs. Cement Plant and High School vs. Battery F. The Cement Plant and High School teams are scheduled for Friday night.

With the postponement of these three games, together with the Battery-Teachers College game, which was postponed two weeks ago, four games will have to be played at odd dates, which throws the entire schedule off. No early opinion will now be made as to the outcome of the league, as all teams will be playing at the last date, under the new order of things.

May Cancel Games.
It is not yet known whether the Teachers College and High School will cancel games to be played here this week. The High school girls were scheduled to play Wewoka here Saturday night, but were prohibited from doing so. They are scheduled to go to Chickasha this week and the boys are to go to Tishomingo.

Oklahoma City College is scheduled to play the Teachers College here Saturday night.

Tommy Ryan, noted lecturer and ex-boxer, who was to have lectured at the Normal auditorium tonight, left the city yesterday afternoon, after orders had been issued prohibiting public gatherings of this nature. He was to have spoken this morning at the High school and also at the Teachers college, prior to his address tonight.

Doctors of the city were busy yesterday and today vaccinating school children, high school students and college students. All students must be vaccinated on or before January 26 to be admitted to classes. It was ordered Saturday. Each child is given a vaccination certificate, which must be signed by the doctor giving the treatment and by the city health officer.

Inspectors Arrive To Look Over City Fire Preventions

H. J. Clark, Oklahoma City, chief engineer of the Oklahoma Inspection Bureau, and Clifford Anderson, electrical engineer with the bureau, arrived in Ada this morning to make a survey of all fire protection in the city with intention of making recommendation on the revival of present fire insurance rates here.

They will spend about four months here and will cover practically the entire city looking into the fire protection system. This will include a thorough inspection of the city fire department, all water mains, heating systems, electrical wiring, and other phases that have a bearing upon insurance rates.

This is the first time in about eight years, according to local insurance representatives, that such an inspection of the city has been made.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

DELIVERANCE AT HAND:—I will be with him in trouble; I will deliver him.—Psalm 91:15.

THE EAST IS PEEVED.

Eastern interests are reported very much concerned over the elevation of Senator McCumber of North Dakota to the chairmanship of the Finance Committee of the senate to succeed Senator Penrose. The promotion of McCumber comes as a result of the rule of seniority that has prevailed in both houses of congress for many years. During the Wilson administration most of the chairmanships were held by Southern men under this rule. Some sections of the Eastern press throw conniption fits about the nation being ruled by Southerners and now they are worried about McCumber. The fact is that the East has ruled the nation so long that a lot of those fellows have come to look upon it as an inherent right with the rest of the country attached to the East for revenue purposes only. It is high time that some other section had a chance to direct some of the legislative machinery to the benefit of the nation as a whole instead of for the East alone. We are not sufficiently familiar with McCumber's record to forecast his course in his new position, but at all events he knows that the country west of Buffalo, New York, is inhabited by a civilized race of people who have some interests to be considered in framing legislative programs. Until just a few years ago weather reports from Washington were not wired farther west than St. Louis. This is a small matter in itself, but it gives one an idea of the conception of the West held by the Easterners who have controlled the government most of the time since the Civil War.

DOES NOT ALWAYS WORK.

In Sunday's Oklahoman Miss Edith Johnson gives some pointers on proposing. In course of her remarks she suggests to the lovelorn youth that out in the moonlight is a most excellent place to declare himself to the adored lady. Very good suggestion, perhaps, and a member of the News staff tried it a number of years ago. The moon beamed down in her greatest glory. Not a cloud was in the sky. The X-Rays have nothing on the rays from the bright countenance of the queen of night as they penetrated the cranium of said scribe. Once inside his skull they played havoc with his ordinary common sense. He was not sure whether he was still on the surface of this planet or had been transported to one of the bright stars that twinkled in the glorious firmament. His heart fluttered with hope. He sat beside the "Only Girl" and poured forth a flood of eloquence that if printed or uttered to a larger audience would have placed him in a niche beside Cicero and W. J. Bryan. But—well matters in everyday life do not always end as they invariably do in stories or the movies. Evidently the rays of the moon failed to penetrate the head of the girl who listened patiently until she had a chance to say something. Next day the orator of the evening before bought a ticket for Oklahoma.

Chili and Peru have agreed to submit their differences to arbitration. Back in the late '70's Chili defeated Peru and Bolivia in war and took as part of the spoils of conquest some of their coast provinces, agreeing that after a lapse of twenty years the inhabitants should vote on the question of remaining a part of Chile or return to their first allegiance. Now it happens that the rich nitrate fields from which Chile draws most of her revenues are located in these provinces. Naturally she was not inclined to give them up and having the biggest guns and more of them than Peru, refused to call the promised election. It is now up to the board of arbitration to decide the matter.

The planet Jupiter is several hundred times the size of our earth. Too bad this sphere cannot be expanded to the size of its celestial neighbor so that there might be trade enough to go around and wealth enough to pay off the war debts without such crushing burdens of taxation. However, scientists tell us that the earth gains several tons in volume every year through the falling of meteors. Perhaps in another million years we shall have picked up enough of these and their ashes as they streak their burning through the atmosphere to solve the problem of size.

A woman was arrested at New Orleans a few days ago and a stock of 2,500 half-pint bottles of booze confiscated. She was charged with trying to smuggle it into the country with the intention of bringing it to Oklahoma. She said she had heard that it would sell for $10 per bottle here. The fame of Oklahoma has spread far, but this was a trifle far-fetched.

Marrying a man to reform him is about as sensible as celebrating the Fourth of July by shooting Roman candles into a powder factory. There is a bare possibility of getting away with it in either case, but the odds are slightly against the experimenter.

Lost—Four Billion Dollars.
(Kansas City Journal)

The government statisticians show that during the year 1920 strikes cost the wage-earners of the United States the staggering total of $4,000,000,000 through voluntary idleness. It seems to have taken considerable time to compile the figures but they are none the less instructive and their warning is even enhanced by the showing.

This does not mean the unemployment made unavoidable through industrial depression. It does not include even any lockouts, which are rare as to be negligible. It means that if every worker who deliberately threw down his tools had remained on the job, the workers in aggregate would have received four billions of dollars more than they did receive—$13,000,000 for every working day in the year.

Is it any wonder that 1921 was not characterized by the upward trend of conditions that was so confidently predicted? If those four billions of dollars had gone into the channels of trade, they would have very measurably strengthened the business situation. They would have bought four billions of dollars worth of goods that the manufacturer did not make or the merchant did not sell.

Could anything be more senseless than this spectacle of four billions of dollars in wages being voluntarily rejected, necessitating the involuntary withholding of at least many hundreds of millions of dollars which they would have enabled other workers to earn? Isn't it about time for legislation which will enforce the settlement of disputes without resort to this vicious system of strikes—taking the bread from the mouths of not only strikers and their families, but of men who are eager to earn their livelihood?

Secret of Success.
(Fort Worth Record)

In the history of all successful men application and work is the basis of their success. None of them are ashamed of it, but all acknowledge freely their debt to labor.

"There is no secret about success," said the late Henry C. Frick, one of Pittsburgh's great iron makers. "Success simply calls for hard work, devotion to your business at all times, night and day. To win in the battle of life a man needs, in addition to whatever ability he possesses, courage, tenacity and deliberation. He must learn never to lose his head. But above all, hard work is the thing."

The same views in other words were expressed by H. Gordon Selfridge, an American who went to England and became head of a great department store in London. "Work—good, hard, honest work, will achieve almost any material thing in the world, and work may be delightful, noble, exhilarating, fascinating," he said. "Work may be full of excitement, of satisfaction, of joy and happiness."

Charles M. Schwab is another famous iron maker who insists that "any man can learn to do anything apply himself to the doing of it." But he does not hold that success is founded upon hard work alone. "A man must have industry, application and common sense," he said. "No man can do much if he has not been endowed with a reasonable amount of brains. He can earn a reputation for unimpeachable integrity, he must tell the absolute truth, he must cultivate good fellowship, he must be a man other men like and trust."

Thomas A. Edison is known to be a hardworker. It has been said of him that he will work day and night without eating and sleeping, to finish something he is doing. But that course is hardly recommended for boys or men generally, for good health is essential and even the man of an iron constitution should have regular hours for eating, sleeping and recreation. But one who works hard seldom has time to get into trouble. "I have never had time," said Edison, "not even five minutes, to be tempted to do anything against the moral law, or any law whatever. If I were to hazard a guess as to what young people should do to avoid temptation, it would be to get a job and work as hard that temptation would not exist for them."

Hope in Failure.

(McAlester News-Capital)
So much alarm has been expressed about the business failures of the past year that R. G. Dunn's latest report on the subject is especially interesting. According to this report, there were 19,652 failures in the United States in 1921.

This sounds like a sufficient excuse for pessimism until it is found that in 1915 there were 20,596 failures, with a smaller number of firms doing business.

1921 percentage of crashes to the total number of firms doing business was about one in 100. So long as American business can remain 99 percent sound in spite of the worst war and the worst peace in the history of the world, there is no reason for quite so much crepe-hanging.

1922 will show its share of breakers and reivers because there are still some firms operating on unsound foundations. But the percentage of failures for the year should be lower than for 1921; and for the big majority the outlook is tolerable if not gay. It is especially for those who follow the advice of one of the big automobile manufacturers or to "produce economically and offer products to the public at reasonable prices."

In The Oil Fields

The Lawrence well in section 16-4-4 west of Center is setting the 15-inch at 350 feet. Much interest has been manifested in this well, and the developments will be watched by the oil men of the entire state.

The Noko Production company's well in section 9-4-7, east of Oklahoma, is drilling at 1,050 feet. This well will soon be down as deep as the Francis sand. Whether the operators are expecting to pick up this sand at that depth, however, is not known.

deposits in central Oklahoma?

These questions have occurred to and have been asked by Oklahoma men during the past week. From a study of the log of the well, field observations recently made and from geological information available to me my own mind is convinced that the formations of the earth out of which this oil is coming belong to the same areas where the Fox, Roberson and Ada oil is found, and is not in any way related to formations from whence we find oil and gas at Henryetta, Wetumka, Wewoka and Holdenville. It does not come from the Wilcox sand.

The following geological formations are identified by the log of the Maud well: Permian, 300 feet; Pennsylvania, 1,200 feet; Mississippi Caney shale, only 1,600 feet (Mississippi lime being absent in this area); Devonian, 700 feet, and into a Silurian sandy limestone to about 100 feet.

This area then is related to the Arbuckle uplift and not to the Ouachita or Ozark. It must be near the base of the Arbuckle disturbance. The earth movements at the time of the Arbuckle uplift disturbed pre-Pennsylvania formations, creating a high line of weakness of these strata from the outcrops thereof at the Arbuckle mountains on which high line of weakness are located the oil and gas wells at Fox, Roberson and Ada. Its subsurface elevated area has a steep east dipping side in the vicinity of Maud and a long gentler west sloping side, paralleling it to the east is found a synclinal basin in the same formation extending north from the synclinal surface that separates the two sections of the Arbuckle mountains.

There is a contact of thick Pennsylvania formation overlying this synclinal surface in western Seminole county east of Maud. This Pennsylvania formation varies from 4,000 to over 5,000 feet thickness in Hughes, Okfuskee and Seminole counties, thus calculating the steepness of the dip of the pre-Pennsylvania formations a few miles eastward from Maud the same oil bearing horizon would not be reached above approximately 10,000 feet. The new area of probable oil production determined by the Maud well, extends southward and westward across Pottawatomie, Pontotoc and Garvin counties where local folding is evident as at Fox, Roberson and Ada. While it adds to this area it does not affect the area eastward one way or another, except that it is not related to it. The available oil horizon in Hughes, Okfuskee and Seminole counties is Pennsylvanian and has its own merit where favorable folding permits accumulation of oil and gas in commercial quantities without regard to the territory from Maud southward.

A gross misconception of the relation of these two areas for the production is evidenced by some thrifty but misguided lease dealers who are leasing and offering all the land for sale covering the territory from Maud east to Holdenville, disregarding the big syncline in the strata below the thick overlying Pennsylvania deposit in contact and without considering the presence of local structure on the Pennsylvania area across Hughes, Okfuskee and Seminole counties. Such excitable practices, while disastrous, are common in Texas, but are now looked upon with disfavor by financiers and practical oil operators in Oklahoma.

DUSTIN—Ellis Kraus, a boy club member, made a net profit of $675.05 on a lone gilt purchased last spring between March 1 and November 1, according to figures just compiled and sent to the boys' club headquarters at the Oklahoma A. and M. college at Stillwater. He figures his total expense at $141.05. His total receipts including the value of hogs on hand and premiums won at county and state fairs, were $817.

FAIRFAX—Advisability of establishing a merchants' credit association here will be discussed and acted upon at the next regular meeting of the chamber of commerce. Committees have been inspecting systems in other cities.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at drug stores for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known down town druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

The GRAVE DIGGERS Association~UNLIMITED

Members of World Wide Organization Fear Competition of New Society.

Happy Workers Health Club Aims Blow at the Pocket Pill Box and Habit Forming Drugs.

If you are one of the vast army of swivel chair laborers, doing your bit in a comfortable, well lighted office for eight hours every day, you are also probably a member of the Grave Diggers' Association—Unlimited.

There are no dues for active membership except those you finally pay the undertaker, nor are you expected to attend any meeting other than the one in which you are escorted to a mossy enclosure with a bunch of calla lilies in your hand.

Language is no barrier to the free interchange of ideas between members. A Russian enjoys the same thrills of fraternalism with a Swede that an Arab does with a Peruvian. The only difference is with the mediums which the members of various nationalities use to identify themselves with the organization.

An American member sitting in a restaurant will invariably look around him soon after giving his order. He will not expect that he himself will be known, immediately, but will spend the few minutes before his order comes in making a survey of the place. Then the waiter brings in his cold consommé smothered with whipped cream.

To uninitiated there might be nothing remarkable in this, but to members it is as clear a declaration as though the member stood upon his chair and proclaimed in a loud voice: "You see I am a loyal member of the Grave Diggers Association—Unlimited."

The Arab would respond by holding high in the air his dish of Arabian lobster and camel's milk, the Russian would disclose his identity by displaying a bowl heaped with Baltic oysters fried to sogginess in antarc blubber, the Peruvian would respond by making known his order of coconut milk mixed with Peruvian cucumbers. So, you see, language is really unnecessary.

As in many other things, the Americans control the situation. Unfortunately for the Association, there are comparatively few office workers in Russia, Sweden, Arabia or Peru. All of those countries have the disturbing custom of requiring more outdoor exercise than does America. The chopping off of Slavonic beards, the making of safety matches, the creation of Arabian nights and the fostering of Peruvian revolutions are all occupations that fit only for the assimilation of the typical Grave Digger.

Hence it is that America has become known as the ideal spot for furthering the business of the Association. Of course, the technical difference is that the Peruvian eats his coconut milk and cucumbers and then goes into a revolution in which the activities of the moment overshadow the more important business of developing ptomaine poisoning. On the other hand the American consumes his cold consommé with whipped cream and then spends four hours in his office where the process of physiological deterioration can go on speedily and without interruption. That, in a nut shell accounts for American supremacy in the competition between international chapters of the Association.

A few years ago when Esperanto became the rage the Association took advantage of it for freer intercourse between members of different nationality. At that time a humorous paper was published from this country aiming shafts of derision at all human beings, not members of the Association. For instance, it would publish cartoons of the poor wretch who would walk to his office every morning just for the exercise, or of the inimitable ass who would limit his lunch to a bowl of milk and crackers. But the magazine was not a tremendous success. First of all Esperanto went out of fashion more or less and thus handicapped the editorial staff of the publication. Another serious difficulty was the transient character of the staff. Few members lived more than two weeks after resuming their duties and this of course, made it impossible to maintain a constant policy or to put into effect any standardization of thought. While it lasted, though, it was greatly enjoyed by all members. It was called "With One Foot In" and on almost any Saturday afternoon scores of loyal members could be seen carrying their magazines home under their arms to spend the week end in sedentary study of its wit and humor. There was much in it that gave inspiration for new gastronomic atrocities for the coming week.

The great consolation that comes from being a member of this Association is the number of chapters that it has and the assurance that you will always find a brother member no matter where you go. They are everywhere, in every civilized place where men eat and work in offices.

The Association should not be confused with the grave diggers' union. Members of the Grave Diggers' Unlimited, dig their own graves and do it with their teeth; but those of the union dig graves for others and use a spade.

Glance through the columns of the paper this morning. There, you see, Jones dropped dead last night in the park from acute indigestion. He was a member of the Association. Brown is in the hospital with hardening of the arteries. He is a member of the Association. Smith, poor fellow, has an incurable stomach trouble. He is a member of the Association.

But, on the other hand, think what a vast amount of good the Association does. It helps keep the earth from being over-populated, it creates an unlimited market for exotic foods from every corner of the globe, it keeps the druggist working day and night dispensing pills, powders and capsules. And the doctors! Why, a telephone-booth-full of doctors would be enough for all of New York City if it were not for the Grave Diggers' Association—Unlimited.

Look at White working at his desk over there in the corner. He goes about his task with the enthusiasm of a man making out his income tax. But last night—what a difference! You should have seen White at Grubb's cafe. The latest jazz, the possible, we may stave off the ravages of a gastronomic policy that is positively vicious.

The officers of the Grave Diggers' Association—Unlimited are becoming seriously alarmed. They have had reports of the organization of a new society—The Happy Workers Long Life Club. While they scold at the idea of a new club growing to threatening proportions, they know way down in their hearts that its constitution and by-laws are based upon sound common sense. Recently a copy of these was obtained and read with great interest by all members of the Association.

"All members of The Happy Workers Long Life Club hereby agree to: 1, drink 2 quarts of good water every day, 2, sleep 8 hours every night, 3, eat simple foods in moderation, 4, take regular exercise, 5, throw away the little tin box in the vest pocket and substitute in its place a breakfast every morning of fruit, cereal with bran, and an egg."

The Happy Workers Long Life Club has one point of individuality as characteristic as the bootlegger's diamonds. That point is the Club's loyalty to bran—bran as a morning cereal, as noonday muffins and as bread for dinner. This loyalty has been easily rendered since science discovered a way of processing bran into a delicious and appetizing food. Every member knows that the whole flour in ordinary bread and rolls has been robbed of the mineral salts and other natural health promoting qualities that are present in bran.

Now an interesting part of all this is a clause in the Club's constitution which reads as follows: "We, the members of the Happy Workers Long Life Club, hereby agree to these things that we may have greater vigor, clearer minds and longer lives. We do not want things merely because of their possession as such, but because they will enable us to stand before the World, knowing that we have given 100 cents of work for every dollar that we receive, and that we will be physically fit to do this for many years."

Their constitution is second only to that of the United States. Neither club, society, union or any other body will stand against it. If there are enough sane men and women in the world today to fill its ranks, it will not be long before in every office, factory and shop there will be hung a sign reading: "None employed here but members of the Happy Workers Long Life Club."

mistakes and you were probably rather pleased when the bill came in for flowers. You realized, at least, that it was the last of a long list of useless expenses on White's account.

What an age is this in which we live! We gabble about efficiency and pay a man $100 a day to spend weeks in our factory, stalking the plant like a detective so that eventually there may be discovered a system by which 1 1/2 units may be produced where but 1 3/8 were produced before. And with all this solicitude about our factory, its machines, its filing system, its advertising policy, we nevertheless carry the little box around in our vest pocket so that, as far as

Farmers' Column

By Byron Norrell

Oklahoma Crop Notes.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 23.—Farmers and business men in counties in Oklahoma where cotton hitherto has been the chief crop are now facing a very difficult problem. Every consideration from the market standpoint calls for holding the cotton acreage down at least to not more than was planted in 1921. A large carry-over of cotton is inevitable and a big cotton crop in 1922 piled on top of that is almost sure, in the present demoralized state of world business, to break prices below the cost of production point.

The necessities of the situation probably will hold down the cotton acreage in the eastern two-thirds of Oklahoma's cotton counties. Over most of that area, oats in a reasonably safe crop if there is sufficient moisture in the soil to give it a good start. The time for starting out seeding is here along the southern border and moisture generally is deficient.

Dry weather has reduced the area usually in wheat in southwestern Oklahoma. Sufficient land to produce a surplus of feed crops in normal seasons is generally planted there. It is inevitable that the cotton acreage will be increased there, especially where yields were good in 1921. Oats is an uncertain crop in that region, though spring barley gives promise of profit if there is moisture enough in February to start it.

The one feature common to every locality in the state is the necessity of every farmer organizing his operations so as to make the land produce all of the food which his family requires. Every farm, without exception, should produce ample supplies of milk and butter, pork products, and eggs and poultry to supply the family table. A cow, a sow, and two dozen hens, given just ordinary care, will produce much more food before next fall than their present cost will buy. This minimum of family feeding livestock should be on every farm. Along with it should be sufficient acreage of locally-adapted feed crops to make it unnecessary to buy any feed. Then every farm should have a home garden, especially to supply plenty of potatoes, sweet potatoes, turnips and other vegetables which may be kept for winter use.

These things we must have. If we produce them, as we may on every farm, the money which will come from wheat, cotton, broom corn and other cash crops will not already have been spent for food and feed. The necessity for taking another and a very doubtful long chance on cotton alone will not exist. The cotton acreage may be held down to the point where it may be thoroughly worked and possibly make something of a crop, despite the boll weevil.

The State Board of Agriculture is not striving towards any certain percentage of reduction of the cotton ton acreage. We are urging an economic reduction of planting less acres and producing more pounds per acre. Our one ultimate view is the growing and producing all of the feed and food to take care of the family on the farm.

Early seed, early planting and extensive cultivation are the secrets to better production in the prevalence of the boll weevil.—State Board of Agriculture, J. A. Whitehurst, president.

Feeding Hens to Make Them Lay.
Spring is the natural laying season for hens, and if we want winter eggs we must duplicate spring conditions.

Variety is important in the winter ration. Eggs cannot be produced unless the feed contains the material from which eggs are made.

A hen craves and seeks different kinds of food. If given an opportunity she will balance her own ration. In the spring and summer, when she ranges on the farm, she gets a variety but in the winter when there is no grass or clover, no bugs or worms, when the water is frozen, when the snow is on the ground so that she cannot pick up bits of gravel and sand, these things must be furnished in her feed.

Corn is the best poultry feed, but too many of us feed nothing but corn. About 10 percent of an egg is fat. Corn contains carbon and starch—the heat and fat producing foods.

Hens need corn, both for body maintenance and egg production, but corn alone does not contain all the food elements necessary to produce eggs.

Equal parts of corn, oats and water they can drink. Warm water is Grain should be fed in a deep litter, so that hens will be compelled to scratch for it. Only the busy hen is the laying hen.

Too much grain should not be fed in the morning. If we keep the hens hungry, they will be busy all day. Late in the afternoon give them all the grain they will eat. A hen's crop should be full when she goes to roost.

The winter laying ration should contain mill feed with either milk or beef scrap. These contain the protein—the bone and tissue-building feeds. About 15 percent of an egg is protein.

During the winter hens need some substitute for the grass and clover and other green food which they get in the summer. Alfalfa leaves, either dry or steamed, are a splendid substitute. Clover leaves may be used in place of alfalfa. Both alfalfa and clover are cheap and easily grown on the farm. They should be used more than they are for poultry feed.

Cabbages, beets, kale, turnips, or any root stocks, make good green feed for hens. If you have a surplus of these in the fall, store them and feed them to your hens in the winter.

About 74 percent of an egg is water. One of the reasons hens do not lay in the winter is that they do not get enough water. Hens should be provided with all the water they can drink. Warm water is better than cold water in the winter time.

Keep a supply of grit, oyster shell and charcoal before the fowls in the winter time. Grit helps to grind the food; oyster shell furnishes the lime for egg shells; charcoal aids digestion and helps keep the bowels in good condition.—Zella Wigent.

Mrs. Duvall, county demonstration agent, reports that many of her girl club members are already preparing their garden plots to be in readiness to raise large quantities of vegetables for canning. She says more girls than usual are getting ready to make early gardens. Next winter there will be some families better fed than usual as a result.

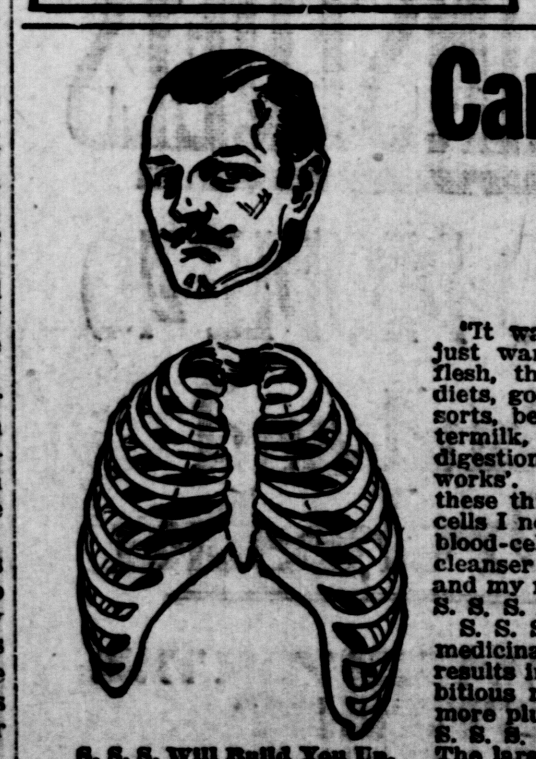

Editor Gaines of the Stonewall News is of the opinion that there is no reason for hard feelings between Forde Harrison of the Allen Democrat and myself in the anti-beauty contest. He insists that is a draw, so far as he can see.

American Farming, published at Chicago, is waging a hard campaign for a smaller acreage of corn next year. At the end of the various articles in the paper a small line is run that reads: "Resolved: I will plant less corn next year. Small chops yield more than larger ones, as cotton growers of the south can testify."

I have yet to find a farmer who does not intend to make the raising of food crops his first and foremost endeavor this year. All figure that with plenty to eat they can get by, even in the face of another year of the boll weevil. This is certainly a long step in the right direction. Having made a success of this myself two years ago and having lived better than ever before or since, I am convinced that anyone can raise plenty to eat with no great effort.

"Four Horsemen" Praised
Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the First M. E. Church, South, of Wichita Falls, Texas, has the following to say of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

"I went last night to see The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. For two hours and a half the marvelous mingling of lights and shadows kept my emotions flying like swift winged birds from sunlit mountain tops to the velvety darkness of deepest valleys. I shuddered, I laughed, I wept and sometimes I nearly cursed. The fact is I think

Can You See Your Ribs?

"It wasn't that I wanted to get fat—no, I just wanted to put on about 8 pounds more flesh, then I'd be just right. I've nibbled at diets, gorged big meals, I've haunted health resorts, been to fine climates, guzzled milk, buttermilk, olive oil, emulsions, swallowed pills, digestion aids, and a score of other 'wont-work' things. Finally, it dawned on me. None of these things was building up the new red blood cells I needed. I took S. S. S., the greatest red-blood-cell builder, firm-flesh producer, blood-cleanser known. I put on 7 pounds in a month, and my nerves, instead of strings feel like wires. S. S. S. has the world's best."

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable in its medicinal ingredients. It has produced amazing results in building up run-down, thin-faced, ambitious men, and in making women of all ages more plump and beautiful, and younger looking. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

I did let loose in my heart several imprecations on the heads of the Germans as the delineation of their heartless arrogance and maddening brutality passed on the screen.

"A description of the picture is impossible, but in two words it is superlatively great. The most delicate touches of exquisite artistry are shown both in the acting and in the stage setting and my unqualified advice to all the Wichita Falls public is 'Sell your shirt if need be or mortgage your half interest in your mother-in-law or proceed to any other desperate measure to get the money and go see this show. It will add a vivifying inspiration to your present and an immortal treasure of memory to your future."

THOMPSON'S MEN BACK FROM DOUBLE DEFEAT
Coach Thompson returned Sunday to Ada after playing two games with Tulsa University at that place. His men lost both games, but Thompson was satisfied, saying that although losing, they profited by the trip.

The first game was lost 66 to 20, but the Ada men were in better form for the Saturday night game, the score then being 25 to 44. It is said on the home court that Ada could make the Tulsa University work for a victory, but a strange court and a fatiguing trip, together with being outclassed, was too much for the teachers.

THREE MILLION BUSHELS OF CORN FOR RUSSIANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—More than three million bushels of corn had been bought by the purchasing commissioner for the Russian relief and one shipment of 240,000 bushels left New Orleans December 31.

The American farm bureau federation said it had been informed to this effect by Lon Livingston, commissioner of agriculture of South Dakota. The corn has been bought, it was said, for delivery of a ship load at New Orleans, Baltimore and New York.

HUSKERS HAVE 7 GAMES ARRANGED FOR NEXT FALL

(By the Associated Press)

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 3.—Seven of the authorized eight football games in which the University of Nebraska is permitted to participate next season definitely have been closed and present indications are that the Cornhuskers will have either October 14 or October 21, open on the 1922 schedule. Athletic directors are dickering with several strong teams for the remaining game, completing what they declare to be one of the heaviest schedules in the institution's history.

Syracuse, Notre Dame, and the University of South Dakota are the foreign foes that have been signed with the Cornhuskers next year.

Four Missouri Valley aggregations—Kansas University, Kansas Aggies, Iowa Aggies and Oklahoma University—make up the present slate.

Augmented by another powerful representative eleven, Nebraska followers believe the 1922 clashes will overshadow in accomplishment the schedule of the 1921 season. While the University of Pittsburgh and the Cornhuskers were unable to agree on dates for a 1922 game, in Syracuse it is believed the westerners have equally as strong an eastern opponent.

Notre Dame again is on the Cornhusker calendar, being the attraction for the Turkey day clash. South Dakota, which appeared in Lincoln during the 1920 season, again has signed with Nebraska for a game next fall. The Kansas Aggies will increase the Nebraska conference schedule to four games instead of three played this season. The games with Missouri Valley schools next year are the same as those met in the 1921 season.

South Dakota will open the 1922 season in a game here October 7, under the present schedule. Oklahoma at Norman follows on October 28, then the Cornhuskers journey east to meet Syracuse on November 4. The contract calls for a Syracuse game in Lincoln in 1923. Kansas University at Lawrence is the Armistice Day game on the schedule, followed by the Kansas Aggies here for the Homecoming day game on November 18. Iowa state comes to Lincoln next year on November 25, while Notre Dame completes the card in a Turkey day game on Nebraska field.

Edmond Normal Has Hope of Repeating Record on Gridiron

(By the Associated Press)

EDMOND, Okla., Jan. 3.—Hope of repeating on the basketball court the record set by Bronze and Blue warriors on the grid-iron last fall is expressed by athletic officials and students at the Central State Teachers' college here as the time draws near for the opening of this season's basketball schedule.

Under the leadership of Coach Ralph A. Myers, who has available five men who played under him last year, things are shaping rapidly for a successful year, basketball fans declare. The old men who are out again are Clyde Leflore, Blackwell, guard; Hugh Braymer, Bartlesville, guard; Martin Williams, center. Several promising new men are also seen on the practice court. They include Forest Wildman, Carnegie Rutledge Ethridge, Tipton; Fred Wallace, El Reno, and Orville Mitchell, El Reno. The team is captured by Clyde Leflore.

Coach Myers is a former Central player, having been a Bronze and Blue member before entering the army during the war. After his discharge he was in the University of Oklahoma in 1919-20. He came here at the beginning of last season and turned out a successful team which won from every team in the conference. It did not, however, win the series from all teams.

JEWISH RELIEF DRIVE RESUMED IN CITY TODAY

A final appeal for Jewish Relief was made today by Sam Scheinberg, chairman of the drive for this district. The campaign for funds will be continued through this week, in order that those who neglected giving last week may still have an opportunity.

In speaking of the matter today, Mr. Scheinberg said:

"This morning there were three hundred thousand, homeless, hungry, little innocent war orphans in Europe, who are looking toward America with tear-dimmed eyes and outstretched arms and with starved mouths too weak for utterances but with a prayer on their lips, 'Give us this day our daily bread.'"

"You, who had a good warm breakfast this morning and a large lunch this noon and are now perhaps ready for a good old dinner the kind mother always makes—Remember the unfortunate little ones in Europe today who understand nothing except that America is the only place where they can look forward to for relief of their miseries. Don't they deserve a little aid?"

"If you think so bring in, or mail your check payable to the Jewish Relief in care of Sam Scheinberg, Ada, Oklahoma."

When St. Croix was released a year later he plotted with the Marquise to be avenged on her father. He told her of the poisoner's recipes, and she tried their effect on poor people who came to her door in search of alms. And by watching the results she decided that it was safe to attempt the life of her parent. This she did with complete success in 1693.

St. Croix had been avenged. But more pressing matters weighed upon him and his mistress. They needed money. Then the natural question arose: why not poison her two brothers and sisters so that she would inherit the whole estate? But these guilty lovers were crafty. They waited four long years, when the two brothers were despatched, with the aid of a valet. An investigation followed, showing the method of their death, but without directing attention to the Marquise. Then St. Croix suddenly died. He had no heirs, so the police were called in, and found among his papers documents which incriminated the Marquise and the valet. The latter was caught, tortured, and confessed. Then he was broken alive on the wheel. But the Marquise had taken flight to England. Afterward she went to Germany and finally to a convent at Liege, where she was decoyed by a police official disguised as a priest. When arrested it was discovered that this unnatural woman had kept a full account of her life and crimes. She returned to Paris a prisoner. There she underwent the torture in her turn and finally was beheaded July 16, 1676, and her body burned.

Then the natural question arose: why not poison her two brothers and sisters so that she would inherit the whole estate? But these guilty lovers were crafty. They waited four long years, when the two brothers were despatched, with the aid of a valet. An investigation followed, showing the method of their death, but without directing attention to the Marquise. Then St. Croix suddenly died. He had no heirs, so the police were called in, and found among his papers documents which incriminated the Marquise and the valet. The latter was caught, tortured, and confessed. Then he was broken alive on the wheel. But the Marquise had taken flight to England. Afterward she went to Germany and finally to a convent at Liege, where she was decoyed by a police official disguised as a priest. When arrested it was discovered that this unnatural woman had kept a full account of her life and crimes. She returned to Paris a prisoner. There she underwent the torture in her turn and finally was beheaded July 16, 1676, and her body burned.

"VAMPS" WHO MADE HISTORY

By JAMES C. YOUNG.

THE WOMAN POISONER.

IF EVER a woman deserved the name of vampire that woman was the Marquise de Brinvilliers. Her misdeeds shocked even medieval Europe in a day when terrible crimes were not unusual. This Marquise was a pretty little woman with an air of youthful innocence. One day she was introduced by her husband to Godin de St. Croix, a young cavalry officer of gay ways. The scandal of their relations soon became a topic of the hour. When the husband of the Marquise failed to interfere, probably because of his flight before creditors, her father had St. Croix put in the Bastille. There the young blade meditated vengeance. A means came to his hand through an acquaintance made in prison with one Exili, a man skilled in the methods of the Italian poisoners.

When St. Croix was released a year later he plotted with the Marquise to be avenged on her father. He told her of the poisoner's recipes, and she tried their

Dance Fight Brings Death To Man; Two Held For Killing

TALEQUAH, Jan. 23.—A difficulty that originated at a Saturday night dance, and which was followed by a drinking affair, according to the sheriff's office, resulted in the killing yesterday of John Carlton, aged 67, by his son-in-law, Jesse Owen, at the latter's home near Elden, 10 miles from Talequah. Owen is in jail. Roy Oxford also is a prisoner in connection with the case. Sheriff George Gourd found Owen at the home of a friend about a mile from the scene of the killing. Oxford was arrested at Owen's home.

WILL YOU BE ALIVE NEXT YEAR?

Suppose tonight your telephone should ring, and, putting the receiver to your ear, you heard these words come over the wire:

"Will you be alive next year?"

It is likely, too, that you would fall into Abraham Lincoln's familiar habit of answering a question by asking one. And that your answering question would be:

"Who wants to know?"

Who does want to know? Well, unless you are very different from most people, you and your family are more interested in the answer to this question than any one else in the world. Barring accidents you want to be alive at this time next year, and the year after and for many years to come. And if you will stop to consider it you will find there is nothing you want half so badly.

Yet it is a scientific certainty that out of every thousand persons in this county fourteen of them will not be alive next year. One of those fourteen might be you. In the event that you were to die within the year, would you leave sufficient funds to pay your debts, and leaving something for the family for their living expenses for a few years?

Court records show that a majority of the estates administered, in this state, are insolvent. How would yours check up?

By taking life insurance you create an estate that will fulfill your obligations to your creditors and your dependents, and its the only way you can make sure.

CANADIANS CHOOSE YOUNG LEADER TO RUN GOVERNMENT THUS EMULATING CANADA'S BIGGEST CORPORATION'S POLICY

New Parliament Bldg.

If Horace Greeley were giving out advice today, he'd be apt to say, "Young man, go north," for Canada is essentially a young man's country. This was proved in the recent election when the Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King was elected Premier of the Dominion. Mr. King, who is now but forty-seven years of age, has held public office since he was twenty-six. His earlier years were spent in gaining an education in the course of which he took degrees at Toronto, Chicago and Harvard Universities. He studied labor conditions in England as a resident of the Passmore Edwards Settlement, a social club for working men and women in which Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the novelist, took a great interest. Mr. King is said to be the hero of Mrs. Ward's novel, "Canadian Born." His first public office was that of Deputy Minister of Labor which he filled from 1900 to 1908. His experience in this department made him an authority on immigration problems and in 1909 he was appointed Minister of Labor, then for three years he did investigation work for the Rockefeller Foundation, and embodied the result of his work in a book under the title of "Industry and Humanity." There are two other examples of young men who are filling high places in Canada. They are Premier Martin who at the age of forty-one, was elected Premier of Saskatchewan in 1917 and whose tenure of office has seen that province forge ahead and prosper mightily, and Edward Wentworth Beatty, the youngest railway president in the world, the head of the world's greatest transportation system. He too, assumed his high office at the age of forty-one and the three years of his incumbency have demonstrated that though his shoulders are young, they bear a wise head, for under his administration the Canadian Pacific Railway has continued to expand.

ST. LAWRENCE TO OPEN UNDOUBTED BENEFIT TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Feasibility of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Water Way project "is unquestionable," President Harding declared today before the national agricultural conference.

"I have spoken," the president said, "of the advantage which Europe enjoys, because of its easy access to the seas, in the way of the cheapest and surest transportation facility. In our own country is presented one of the world's most attractive opportunities for extension of the seaway many hundreds of miles inland. The heart of the continued with vast resources in both agriculture and industry would be brought in communication with all the countries by the execution of the St. Lawrence waterway project. To enable ocean going vessels to have access to all ports of the Great Lakes, would have a most stimulating effect upon the industrial life of the country's interior.

"The feasibility of the project is unquestioned, and its cost, compared with some other great engineering work would be small. No only would cost of transportation be greatly lessened but a vast population would be brought overnight in immediate touch with the market of the entire world."

Heed The Danger Signals!

If we are not "fit as a fiddle" in the morning; if we don't feel better than when we went to bed; if our breath is offensive and we have that bad taste in the mouth, Nature has set the danger signals for us and we cannot afford to neglect the warning that she gives.

Probably eighty percent of all diseases originate in the digestive organs, so it is evident that if we have stomach trouble, however slight, we are foolish indeed if we do not take prompt steps to correct it.

Stomach trouble is almost always followed by a complication of diseases. One of the first being an over-worked liver, with all the symptoms of biliousness, followed in turn by headaches, coated tongue, dizzy spells, pain in the back, palpitation of the heart and other distressing symptoms.

Sooner or later the kidneys will become involved and that is just why these danger signals should be heeded in time. A wise man puts out the fire before there is too much destruction. The same theory should apply to stomach trouble.

The American people have learned that Tanlac probably provides the surest, safest and quickest remedy for all such troubles, and millions upon millions have taken it, with the most astonishing and gratifying results.

That is the reason for the phenomenal success of Tanlac and that is why it is proclaimed the world's Greatest Tonic.

Tanlac is sold in Ada by M. A. Waits and all leading druggists. (Adv.)

STATE'S RESERVE WORKING QUIETLY

But 90th Division Will Be One of Country's Most Efficient.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 21.—On the fourth floor of the state capitol here there is an office the walls of which are plastered with military maps. Filing cabinets and tables piled high with army records almost obscure the desks at which work officers and a number of enlisted men. It is a busy place in which typewriters keep up a constant clatter and mimeographs turn out reams of printed sheets. It is the headquarters of the 95th division of the organized reserves, and from it there is being evolved in Oklahoma the skeleton of a complete military organization—the embodiment of what officers describe as the first definite military policy of the United States since the nation's formation.

As provided in the defense act by which it was created, the organized reserve is composed of former officers or civilians who have passed certain examinations. It is to constitute a framework for an army in time of emergency. Thoroughly organized throughout the United States, it will provide officers for a fighting machine, the various parts of which are already designated and correlated.

Check Officers Records.

Slowly, quietly and carefully the staff officers in the headquarters here have been for nearly three months checking and re-checking the records of Oklahoma officers in the world war and making assignments to the many units of this organization scattered throughout the state.

When recruited to maximum strength, the 95th division will include 905 officers. At the present time this strength is only 20 percent completed. It is hoped that 100 percent strength may be reached by July 1, according to staff officers. At that time the state will be completely covered with a skeletonized army which would come into being upon an hour's notification. A flash from Washington to the staff headquarters here, a score or more telegrams rushed from here to various commanders throughout the state, and the division would be mobilized and ready for action.

With officers thus assembled and ready to assume command of men who volunteer or are drafted, the organization of each company would be rushed to completion as a local organization. This unit even now has been assigned to a definite place in the nation's fighting force, and upon orders would move without delay according to this pre-arranged plan.

As pointed out by the officers in the headquarters here, the idea of laying all plans for the mobilization of an army and the meeting of an emergency before the emergency arises is an entirely new system for the United States war department.

Previously all plans for the organization of an army have been delayed until after the declaration of war, they explained.

State In Four Sections

Oklahoma is divided into four sections for the organization of the reserves. An infantry regiment is located in each division. These regiments are the 377th, with headquarters at Tulsa, commanded by Lieut. Col. Ira L. Reeves of Tulsa; the 378th, with headquarters at McAlester, a commander for which has not been named; the 379th, with headquarters at Enid, commanded by Lieutenant Col. Elton H. Jayne of Edmond; and the 380th, with headquarters at Lawton, commanded by Lieut. Col. Winfield Scott of Enid.

The 189th brigade, composed of the 377th and 378th infantry regiments, has its headquarters at Muskogee. No commander has been named. The 190th brigade, composed of the 379th and 380th infantry regiments, and commanded by Brig. Gen. Roy Hoffman of Oklahoma City, has its headquarters here. The 170th artillery brigade has headquarters here also. No commander has been named. This is also the case with the 358th and 359th regimental headquarters at Muskogee and El Reno respectively. The 320 medical regiment, commanded by Lieut. Col. F. H. Clark, has headquarters in Oklahoma City.

About July 1 the officers of the reserve are to enlist a few specialists such as mess sergeants and other non-commissioned officers. This is to complete further the skeletonized basis for the army that would be organized in time of emergency.

The act creating the reserve specifies that it cannot be called into active being except in the event of war. It is known as the third line of defense, following the regular army and the national guard. In time of peace there is no obligation attached to membership in the reserve, officers here explained. There is no drilling or other duties. A budget improving funds to give 30,000 reserve officers training annually has been approved by Director of the Budget Daves. This training, however, would be optional to members of the reserve.

When fully organized, the total strength of the reserve corps throughout the United States will be approximately 70,000 men, according to Major John T. Hett, adjutant, of the staff headquarters. There are 27 divisions in the United States, Oklahoma being one of the few states to have a division to herself alone.

Other officers in the headquarters here are Lieut. Col. G. A. F. Trumbo, chief of staff; Major James C. King and Major F. M. Armstrong. Half a dozen enlisted men complete the personnel of the office.

HARVESTER WOULD LEARN ABOUT ITS COMPETITION

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Senator Norris, republican of Nebraska, introduced in the senate today a resolution directing the attorney general to inform the senate whether the department of justice "contemplated any separate action" against the International Harvester company, for the purpose of effectively restoring competitive conditions between the various corporations making up that company. Objection was made to immediate consideration and Mr. Norris announced he would seek action tomorrow.

ARMS PARLEY MAY DENY CHINA GUNS

Conference May Prohibit Country from Enlarging Its Own Armies.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—A statement declaring that Japan had no territorial designs in Russia, and giving assurance that Japanese troops would be withdrawn as soon as stable conditions should be established there, was made today by the Japanese delegation at the meeting of the far east committee.

Take Up 21 Demands.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Secretary Hughes was understood to have informed the far east committee of the Washington conference at its session today that the question of the 21 demands, abrogation of which has been asked by China, would be taken up as soon as a settlement is reached in the Shantung controversy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—As one means of giving effect to its declaration last week in favor of the reduction of the Chinese army, the arms conference is contemplating a resolution looking to the prohibition of the importation of arms into China.

The proposal emanated from the American delegation which went into today's meeting of the far east committee prepared to present it fully. The sub-committee of the Chinese eastern railroad also had a report ready for consideration today, and it was indicated that both of these propositions would be disposed of before the committee turned its attention to Siberia, the next subject of the far eastern agenda.

The Chinese eastern resolution was understood to recommend continuance of the present inter-allied control of the roads until more stable conditions are restored in Russia, into whose territory the road crosses from Manchuria.

The American plan was believed to be acceptable to most of the delegations of the powers and it was indicated also that the Chinese who heartily supported the previous resolution, requiring the reduction of the Chinese army, would not interpose any objection.
